School's supervisor words

The Revd Canon
Dr. Lam Chun Wai

In the 16th century, the English philosopher Francis Bacon (1561-1626) had this to say about "knowledge": "Knowledge is power! Knowledge is a kind of pleasure, and curiosity is the seed of knowledge." Similar sayings are familiar to people living in the city of Hong Kong, as they have heard the weighty words "knowledge changes destiny" during TV commercials. For the previous generation who experienced losing educational opportunities due to war and poverty, they are particularly concerned about their children's education and growth, hoping their children can seize the opportunities to study well. The saying "if the young do not strive, the old will lament in vain" is the guidance the older generation gave to the younger generation, wishing the youth could strive and thrive in their prime so they would not regret when they grow old. But nowadays, such words are rarely heard from parents' mouths. It's not that they don't value their children's education, but the children no longer need to understand what "strive and thrive" means, as they are constantly "striving and thriving" under their parents' daily "care." The question is, do the parents know what their children are "striving" for and "thriving" on?

If "striving and thriving" is externally imposed, with the children following the parents' pace, the knowledge they absorb may be useful, but how much of it is gained from their own initiative? The emphasis on "initiative" is about finding satisfaction from one's own interests, which is what Bacon referred to as "knowledge is a kind of pleasure, and curiosity is the seed of knowledge." The vitality of all plants starts from the sprout, indicating that the soil's growth conditions and nutrients, as well as nature's air, temperature, moisture, and even the gentle breeze, all affect whether the seed can sprout and grow healthily. Some conditions come from nature, and what people need to contribute is time and dedication, willing to work together with nature.

Applying this to our children, the kindergarten is a place for their growth, where the parents' and teachers' efforts provide a good soil for their sprouting and healthy growth, with quality nutrients allowing them to absorb knowledge and learn to get along with others. But we must not overlook the more important aspect - in the campus life, especially in the process of learning together, are we able to cultivate their "curiosity"? For children, every day is new, as they don't have repetitive homework drills - the graduation rehearsal being an exception. Their height and appearance gradually change as they grow, from unfamiliar to familiar, from resistant to accepting, from knowing nothing to claiming to know everything. "Curiosity" plays a big role in this, giving them the desire to pursue and know more about the things around them. Initiative comes from curiosity, so let's not unconsciously deprive them of the gift from heaven, the curiosity God has specially bestowed upon them. Without curiosity, there is no initiative, and as they grow older, they will only become followers of others, losing the ability to self-reflect, be self-aware, and pursue new things and new knowledge - how regrettable that would be.

For St. Peter's Kindergarten, it has entered its 30th year, still young but with mature experience, and it still holds a curious heart towards new things. We believe that with the parents' care for the school, the teachers' love and gentle guidance, and God's grace, the campus will become a joyful land where children's knowledge can sprout.

Principal's words

Ms. Chan Fung Yin

It has been 17 years since I joined the St. Peter's Kindergarten. I have experienced every stage of the school, especially during the graduation ceremony, when the teachers were busy rehearsing performances with the students, and making costumes and props.

Birthday parties and festivals are also arranged with fun activities, allowing the children to enjoy and build beautiful memories as they grow. Although it is busy every day, I never feel tired, but rather cherish the days spent with the students.

In the journey of early childhood education, in addition to enjoying the process of teaching young children, I also like to exchange parenting tips with parents. I am fortunate to have established friendly relationships with parents, and even after the children have graduated, they still care for and support the school, which I am very grateful for.

The school team is very important. To improve the teaching quality, we need to have a unified goal and work together to put the school's motto into practice: "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it. (Proverbs 22:6)". I hope that every child at St. Peter's can develop good character and a correct learning attitude.

After the pandemic, the school has resumed normal operations, and students are attending classes as usual. Of course, we can see the children's bright smiles every day as they participate in classroom activities. To make learning more interesting, the school actively arranges field trips to the library, science museum, police station, Ocean Park, and other places, allowing the students to explore beyond the school campus and enjoy the fun with their classmates.

This year, the school also organized various activities, such as a parent-child sports day, a parent-child mosaic coaster workshop, and parent talks, allowing parents to relax and strengthen their parent-child relationship. The school also carried out campus improvement projects during the summer vacation to provide students with a more comfortable learning environment.

This year is the 30th anniversary of St. Peter's Anglican Church Kindergarten (Stanley Branch) and the 20th anniversary of St. Peter's Anglican Church Stanley Nursery. In the days to come, the school will continue to strive to provide quality early childhood education services in the Stanley district, and work together to nurture our next generation.

WORDS FROM TEACHERS

In the blink of an eye, I have been attending St. Peter's Church Kindergarten (Stanley) for five years. The children greet me with bright smiles every day, which makes me feel very warm and cozy every day. The current whole day K2 class has been teaching for the second year. I recall how ignorant you were at the beginning of the school year. Now you actively participate in class, laugh constantly, and share your daily life with me in your free time. It really makes me happy and feel like they have grown a lot. You are like a small seed, absorbing different nutrients and growing gradually every day. As a gardener, I feel happy and grateful because of your growth. I wish you continue to absorb different nutrients and grow up. Finally, I wish you all have a fulfilling and happy kindergarten life.

Ms. Fan Hiu Lam

I am very happy to work in St. Peter's Kindergarten. I look forward to interacting with the children in the kindergarten every day. Glad that they constantly changing, growing, and progressing. Apart from teaching classroom knowledge for them, I hope that I can also teach them how to become a child that everyone loves. I hope you all grow happily in God's love. Fighting!

Ms. Chau Po Hang

Time flies, the second semester has arrived. The two-year-old baby went from crying for his mother when they returned to school to coming back with a smile; from speaking only a single word to sharing interesting things about life with the teacher; from wearing diapers to school to learning how to use the toilet, seeing you grow day by day, calling Miss Lau sweetly, and giving heartwarming hugs, these are the driving force for teachers to work every day!

Ms. Lau Pui Ying

The days at St. Peter's Church were neither long nor short. Now in my sixth year of working life, being a kindergarten teacher undoubtedly requires abundant physical strength and infinite patience to teach young children. Of course, sometimes I will feel tired, but the only thing that remains unchanged is that I will still miss their lovely face and innocent laugh during the long holiday. Rather than teachers imparting knowledge, children actually gave me inspiration. They made me understand what it means to be carefree and live in the present. From my own experience, I also deeply understand that family background has a great impact on the growth of children. Although I am not a parent, as a teacher, I will promise to continue to nurture children with love and care.

Ms. Lu Man Chih

I am glad to join the family of St. Peter's Church Kindergarten (Stanley), it is my first year to be a pre-nursery class teacher and my pleasure to grow with them. I recall that when they first entered school, they would cry and say, "I want my mother," and they would often look at me with tears in their eyes. In the blink of an eye, the next semester came, and they quickly adapted and enjoyed campus life. I am very grateful to be able to teach and take care of the children. They always have smiles on their faces and call me with cute voices, which makes me feel very warm. Finally, I wish all children can grow up healthily and happily, live a happy childhood.

Ms. Wong Sze Wing

This year is my seventh year joining St. Peter's Church Kindergarten. I am very grateful to continue to be a part of the big family and to continue to advance on the educational roadside by side with my colleagues.

In the school, every time I see the cute smiling faces of children, saying "Good morning, Teacher Kwan!" makes me full of strength and devotes myself to schoolwork. Children study in this caring and pleasant campus. There are wonderful changes and interesting things happening every day. They grow up at an alarming rate, which makes the teacher feel both happy and nervous! I firmly believe that teachers' efforts are worth it. May they continue to be watered with love and grow up happily. I also wish the children to enjoy campus life, study hard, and realize their potential!

Ms. Kwan Chuk Ying

When I joined St. Peter's Church Kindergarten (Stanley) for the first year. At the beginning of the semester, I was worried whether the children would have a different perception of male teachers. I remember when I first met the children on the first day of school, they were all very curious about me and kept asking questions, which swept away my worries.

Children are very curious about everything, no matter how big or small, they will explore it. Sometimes their innocent questions make me dumbfounded. It is precisely this innocence of children that becomes my motivation for teaching every day. I hope that children can maintain this innocence and continue to explore the world.

Mr. Leung Wai Chun

I feel incredibly fortunate to be part of the St Peter's Church Kindergarten Stanley family. To Principal Chan, all the teachers, and kindergarten staff, thank you for the support and for fostering a collaborative and nurturing environment for all. Your dedication to each child's well-being is truly inspiring.

To my students, my little stars, thank you for bringing energy and love into each day. Your smiles, laughter and milestones have made this journey extraordinary. I am blessed to be your kindergarten English teacher, and I look forward to seeing you shine brightly as you grow.

To the parents and guardians, thank you for the trust and involvement. Together, let us continue to create cherished memories of their childhood.

Ms.Tracy

When I go back to school, I can always see innocent, energetic and childish smiles. It is so encouraging to witness the improvement of the children. I am grateful that I can participate in various school activities and spend different festivals with my colleagues and children, leaving many precious memories. I hope that children can maintain their rich curiosity and desire for knowledge when they grow up, and that they can make progress and thrive in all aspects of morality, intelligence, physical fitness, and art.

Ms.Ng Yi Ming

I am fortunate to have the opportunity to teach children of all ages and all classes here. Being able to witness their physical growth and the increase in their knowledge is such a precious experience. Every day, when I see their adorable little faces, my heart is melted, and I cannot help but pour all my love into them.

At the start of each new school year, I see some of them feeling worried and afraid, some crying, and some silent. I'm concerned about whether I can teach them to speak proper Mandarin and love speaking Mandarin. From the preparatory class, where they are just learning to speak, from single words to multi-syllable words and sentences, through speaking, singing, and dancing, I have experienced their language development journey.

Until the senior class, for the children who couldn't even say a single word when they were in the preparatory class, when an interesting topic is introduced in the classroom, their little mouths start chattering eagerly! Using a mix of Cantonese, they also try their best to express what they want to say. Seeing them learn with such dedication is truly moving.

Language development is an ongoing process. I hope that every child can learn to speak proper Mandarin well and love speaking Mandarin in a joyful and laughter-filled environment.

Ms.Chen Hon Mei

Parent's Sharing

CHEUNG HEI SEN
PN(AM)

Hello everyone! We are Hei Sun's parents. Our child, born in August, is slightly younger than the other children. We had discussions about enrolling him in the pre-nursery class, considering various factors. We wanted him to learn school rules and experience social life, but we were concerned about his young age and the potential challenges of adapting to a new environment. However, we have no regrets about choosing St. Peter's Church Kindergarten for his pre-nursery education.

During the adaptation week in September, he faced some difficulties adjusting to the new environment and would cry when we said goodbye. However, the teachers and principal kept us updated on his progress and showed great care. They use the E-Class app to share his interesting experiences at school, making us feel their thoughtfulness towards all the students. By the end of October, we saw significant improvement in Hei Sun's adaptation to school life. He can now greet the principal and teachers independently, have his temperature checked at the door, bid us goodbye, and cheerfully walk back to the classroom.

At home, he sings songs with accompanying actions and tells us about the songs he learned at school. We can see his progress and are grateful to the teachers. St. Peter's Church Kindergarten is a loving school that provides a joyful environment for children to grow up in.

Since Chloe started pre-nursery, she has learned valuable life skills and basic etiquette. She can greet others and take care of herself independently. It brings me joy as a mother to witness her growth.

Every night, I ask Chloe, "Do you enjoy going to school?" She eagerly responds, "I love going to school!" When I inquire about her day, she excitedly shares activities like stamping, sticking stickers, singing, and dancing. We even dance together, filled with joy. In just over two months, the principal, teachers, and staff have provided attentive guidance and support, helping Chloe adapt to school life. I remember a time when she couldn't attend classes for almost two weeks due to illness, and the teachers showed genuine concern. I am grateful to the principal and teachers for their care.

LEE SING WAI JASMINE
K1(AM)

Initially, I worried that my daughter would struggle to adapt to the new school environment, cry, or have difficulty expressing her needs. However, her cheerful smile upon returning home reassured me that my concerns were unfounded. She had a fantastic experience in the pre-nursery class at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten. Now in K1, she eagerly looks forward to school every day. She shares both her happy and sad experiences, which mark milestones in her growth. I am grateful to Principal Chan, every teacher, and the janitorial staff for their care towards my daughter. Despite our busy schedules, the teachers maintain regular communication, ensuring I am aware of her strengths and weaknesses. Above all, she gains knowledge, friendship, and love at this school.

CHEUNG YI LAMM JAYCUS
PN (AM)

I am extremely grateful that Jaycus was able to enroll in the pre-nursery class at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten. Within just a few months, I have already felt the love and care the principal and teachers have for the children. I remember being very worried before the start of school, concerned that he wouldn't adjust well to school life due to his limited verbal expression. Thankfully, the school organized a preschool seminar for parents before the children began, which reassured me and made me understand that this is a necessary stage for every child.

At the beginning of school, Jaycus would cry every day, which as a mother, worried and broke my heart. However, the teachers would send us daily photos, and from them, I realized that Jaycus was happy and actively engaged in class. Now, after almost three months since September, I can truly see the tremendous progress he has made. Every time he boards the school bus, he eagerly throws himself into the teacher's arms, and he even sings the nursery rhymes he learned at school when he's at home!

Therefore, I am incredibly grateful to the teachers for their teaching and care towards him. I'm also pleased that the teachers always patiently answer my questions, providing me with a clearer understanding of his developmental progress

YIP TSZ YAU
K1(AM)

Tsz Yau started her K1 classes in September this year. Due to the COVID pandemic, she had never attended preschool or playgroup classes, and she rarely had the opportunity to go to the park and interact with other children. Tsz Yau has an older sister, Tsz Yu, who was promoted to Primary 1 this year and has a reserved personality. However, after transferring to St. Peter's Church in K2, she has become noticeably more lively and cheerful. She shares many interesting things that happen to her every day. I want to express my gratitude to Miss Fan, Miss Lu, Principal Chan, teachers, and staff members because of whom my two children have had such a happy kindergarten experience. The students adore their teachers, and they also get along well with one another.

This year, Tsz Yau was fortunate to be placed in Miss Lu's class. On her first day of school, she didn't cry, and after school, she would eagerly ask when she could return to school again. Thank you to all the staff at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten for making this possible!

LEUNG MACKENZIE SEN WAH

All the teacher is very friendly and helpful, they have a lot of activities that kids have fun .. thanks for caring my daughter and the other kids.....it's a big help my daughter learn a lot from school St.Peter.

POON YAT SUN K3(WD)

Time flies, our two children (Hei Ching and Yat Sun) have had a very pleasure time at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten for more than six years! One of my children will graduate from kindergarten after this academic year and enter a new page in their lives. In the past three years, under the encouragement of the principal and teachers, he has gradually grown up and become cheerful. He is excited to go to school every day. After school, he always tell us about things that happened at school, such as what words he learnt, doing handicrafts, site visits, birthday parties, etc. We feel fortunate that our children have been able to grow up in this excellent and happy kindergarten. The school also encourages parents to participate in talks, visits, interest classes, and parent-child handicraft activities, so that we can experience various meaningful activities with our children which enhance our relationships. In the past few years, after the pandemic, we also feel that with the efforts of the principal and teachers, the children can grow up happily and healthily. Luckily, school life has finally back to normal. The teachers also kept a close bonding with parents and update the school photos to inform parents about the children's situation at school, which is very reassuring. In addition, the school also provides a lot of adaptation courses to support the transition to primary school, such as writing the handbook, participating in the Mathematics Olympiad in primary school, and performing rope skipping, so children can get prepared for primary school in advance. Finally, I would like to express my gratitude to Principal Chan, teachers, and janitors for their teaching and love over the past six years.

LAW NGA TUNG K2(AM)

My daughter is a K2 student. Parents may choose a school with excellent campus facilities and a large environment, but I prefer choosing a school with teachers who are caring for my kid. I think these two factors cannot have it both at the same time. First, in terms of campus decorations, I would like to thank all the teachers for making them beautifully, so Ya Tong can improve her art ability in this beautiful environment. The campus poster not only uses three-dimensional handmade methods but also uses color-matching skills. She pays attention to the decorations on campus, which develop her interest in art. Secondly, my daughter learned "empathy". Teachers use empathy skills to communicate with students during parent-class observations. My daughter once saw her classmates crying and took the initiative to say to her classmates, "It doesn't matter if you can't do it this time, you can do it again, you don't need to cry, Ya Tong will accompany you." I am glad to see that she knows how to care for others and has empathy. Finally, I would like to thank Mr. Leung, Ms. Fan, Ms. Chen, Ms. Tracy, and all the teachers for their caring and patient teaching to the students, which has benefited the students a lot and made them excited to go to school.

LAU SUM YU GABI K2(AM)

St. Peter Church Kindergarten is very meaningful for us, my elder daughter studied here from Nursery to K3, then it is my little daughter Sum Yui turns to study in this school. All the the principal, teachers, office staff or janitors, treat the children with heart. When I encountered problems, the principal and teachers will provide assistance for me and solved my issues. The school also provides different courses or activity for children to explore and visits. Thank you once again for taking care of my children, hope all of you have a wonderful life, and see you soon!

CHUNG PO YEE K3(WD)

Hello everyone, I am the K3 parent of Chong Boi Yee. In the blink of an eye, there are a few months left in K3, and she is about to graduate and become a primary school student. Thank you, Principal Chan, Ms. Chow, and all the staff in the school, thank you for your dedication to the school. During these 4 years, she has a happy and fruitful kindergarten life in this campus, these memories accompany her to grow together. I still remember at the beginning of the Nursery class, Bao Yi cried for the whole month in school, and we were helpless, all thanks to the infinite patience and encouragement of the teachers, so that she had the sense of belonging to the school, from a shy girl to a cheerful girl, gradually fell in love with the school and enjoyed campus life. After school every day, she shares with us what she learned, which classmate she played games with, or what she had for lunch at school, which seems to be minor, but all of them are great memories for her. Kindergarten is an important step for children to learn and grow, and she is very fortunate to be able to grow up with the accompany of all the teachers. Once again, I would like to thank Principal Chan and all the teachers for their selfless dedication. I hope the school will continue to work hard in the coming year to nurture more new generations.

Thank you for the teaching and caring of Zik Zik. When he returns home, he constantly talks about what happened at school, which shows his love about school life. He also made friends at school and would share with us what games he played with his best friend. After moving up to K2, I noticed that he has shown significant growth, the most obvious change is that he has learned to make new friends! Although he still struggles a bit with starting conversations, he is making an effort to join in. He is also very good at expressing himself now, which thanks to the school's teaching, and I am especially grateful to Ms. Fan and Mr. Leung. Finally, I feel that he likes the Kung Fu class very much, especially the dragon dance! He once said that although he is too tired to do the actions, he is also happy that he can participate in the show! Great thanks to the kindergarten, Coach Hung, Miss Kwan, and thank you to all the teachers and janitors!

TSE WAI CHAK K2(WD)

This is the final year of the kindergarten for my child, I remember he is very shy in PN class, he talks and plays alone most of the time. He also participated less in class. However, under the teaching and caring of Miss Fan and Miss Lau, he becomes very brave and takes the initiative to answer questions in class. As a mother, I am really glad that he made such a great effort, thanks again to all the teachers. When he is K2 and K3, Miss Chow is his class teacher, he becomes more and more active, he starts to have his own opinions and is more willing to share his thoughts, and he stays well with his classmates. This growth is all parents willing to witness, he likes to go to school and loves Miss Chow very much, so my husband and I were relieved about his school life, thank you Ms. Chow! Last but not least, thank you Principal Chan and teachers, for taking such good care of my child in the past few years, thank you for giving my child a happy kindergarten time, that me and husband will never forget.

HUNG PAK HEI K3(AM)

YUEN KAI TUNG
KANDACE K2(WD)

Thanks to the principal and teachers for their thoughtful guidance, which allowed Tung Tung to grow up independently. Especially Miss Fan, her two-years class teacher, often shares her campus life with me. She will pay attention to any changes in her emotions, which makes us, understand her school life thoroughly! When comparing to K1, she is more proactive in expressing herself and more disciplined now. The school combines whole-day class with AM class in K2, which broadens her social life. With the addition of a new male teacher, Mr Leung, she does not resist male and even likes to play with him! The school uses real-life examples to teach students, which impresses the children deeply. This shows how powerful teachers are! As their parents, we are very grateful for the teachers at the school for their patient teaching, so that she can truly enjoy her childhood, which launched a good step in her learning career, allowing her to experience the fun of communication with people, and also allow her to explore things that outside our home.

LEE LONG KIU K3(AM)

Thank you to Principal Chan, all teachers, and janitors for their guidance and care for Long Qiu! In these three years of school life, he has been more proactive than the past, but he still has room for improvement. He enters school every day without looking back, which makes me very happy. His campus life is very happy! He often sang songs taught by his teacher at home, and he established a close relationship with his teachers and classmates, building wonderful memories of his kindergarten years. I hope he will continue to enjoy a wonderful campus life and I wish teachers, students, and parents good health!

LING PUI LAM K3(AM)

In the blink of an eye, Pei Lum has entered St. Peter's Church Kindergarten for the fourth year. The scene of she is crying when she walked into school is still fresh in mind. She is the eldest sister in the school now. She grew a lot, from an introverted and quiet little girl to an active girl. Thanks to the guidance and the warm smiles of the principal and teachers, she successfully adapted to the school environment. From her frequent mention of Miss Chou, Miss Yu, Miss Kwan, Miss Lau, and Miss Cheung, as well as everything happened at school, all this proves how much she loves going to school and is very thankful to be in St. Peter Church Kindergarten.

We highly recommend St. Peter's Church Kindergarten to any parent seeking a truly exceptional early childhood education for their child. Our son Julius has thrived in this enriching environment, and we are grateful for the care and education he has received. St. Peter's Church Kindergarten truly stands out as a beacon of excellence in early childhood education.

Ming Hei has been studying in St. Peter's Church Kindergarten for four years. Due to the pandemic, we can only have online lessons. However, I can still feel the teacher's enthusiastic teaching through the screen. I still can't forget the disappointed expression of the child after the classes ended. My younger son Ming Kei, who was attracted by the teacher's teaching that day and has been joining his elder brother in online classes. He is also enrolled in the pre-nursery class this year and goes to school with his elder brother. Even though the two brothers are not very similar in personality, they always laugh and share about school events when they get home from school, and even sing a few songs. I believe that teachers put in a lot of patience and love to make both of them involved in school life. I remember that my younger son had difficulties in adapting to school life at the beginning. He once cried and looked for his brother during tea time, and the teacher did not stop him. When the younger brother saw his elder brother, he quickly calmed down. I am very grateful to the teacher for his understanding and accommodation of the child's discomfort. Ming Hei is about to enter Primary 1. To allow K3 students to have a seamless transition to primary school life, the principal and teachers have appropriately arranged preparations related to primary school, such as writing a handbook every day and posting pictures of Hong Kong dollars in prominent places in the classroom, etc. During the class observation, I was able to be in the classroom and understand how Ming Hei and his peers took care of themselves and actively participated in classroom activities, which made me very appreciative and reassured. I believe that the above are the results of the hard work of the principal, teachers, and janitors. Thank you everyone makes their kindergarten life fulfilling and enjoyable!

VOICES FROM FORMER PARENTS

HO YIK LAM & HO YIK HIM 'S PARENTS

My eldest son will be entering Secondary One this year.

Looking back at the first day he entered St. Peter's Church kindergarten, it seems like that it was last week.

When choosing a kindergarten for him, I have made up my mind to choose a loving and happy kindergarten for him. After all, under Hong Kong's education system, if you do not choose to attend an international school, the burden of studying in primary and secondary school will be very heavy! Kindergarten is the place where they first contact with "going to school". We must make them happy!

To be happy in school, the prerequisite is that teachers must be in full care! St. Peter's Church Kindergarten is full of love! Looking back when my son was studying there, it should be the happiest period of study!

They love each child and see each child's unique talents.

My eldest son has autism spectrum disorder. He has a relatively introverted personality but is talented in academics and art. I remember that Miss Wong, the class teacher of K3, knew about my son's condition. She proactively suggested that he should be the leading actor in the graduation performance so that he could train his courage. In class, Miss Wong often reminds my son to fight for his wants (she will even teach him to quarrel) I will always remember her love for children.

I work as an actor and drama teacher, so I firmly believe that everyone has his unique talent.

Academic performance does not completely represent a person's achievement. However, in Hong Kong, where performance and winning at the starting line are always advocated. As a parent, it is difficult to avoid this rule of the game, but I will often remind myself that every child is special! As long as there is love, I don't compare my child with others, I will be able to find his talent and let him shine in his special field.

I'm lucky, as I enjoy my work and I'm living a decent life. (My diploma has never been used.) I hope that both of my sons can find their paths. This is the luckiest thing in the world!

St. Peter's Church Kindergarten is a place that does not compare children and allows them to find their own talents!

VOICES FROM FORMER PARENTS

LEUNG HO CHING'S PARENTS

Time flies, my son was thirteen years old already. Looking back on his first day in kindergarten, we, as new parents, were both excited and worried... After saying goodbye to our son, we hid outside the school door or peeked out of the classroom window to see the son.

The next day, the teacher advised us: "Don't peek outside the window... Even if the children only see a few hairs of yours, they will recognize you and burst into tears immediately!" Yes! I haven't thought about it, so let's believe the teacher's experience.

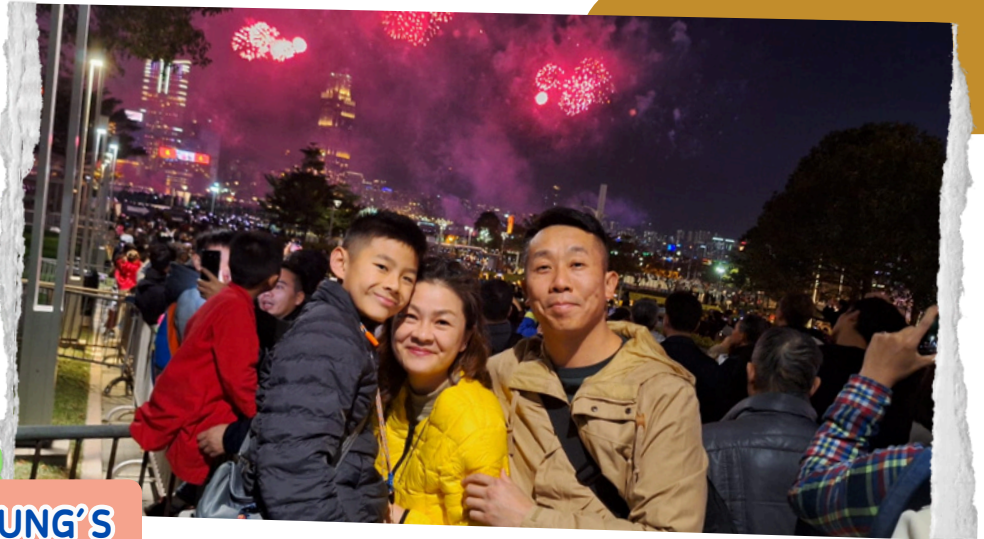

Maybe that's what parents worry about: after sending their children back to school, parents will still reluctantly stay outside the classroom window for a while. Gradually, that small piece of open space has become a good place for parents to gather in the morning. During the Chinese New Year, Easter Holiday, Dragon Boat Festival, Mid-Autumn Festival, and Christmas... everyone is also very enthusiastic about school activities in the kindergarten and participates as volunteers. Everyone shares interesting stories and experiences about parenting and also builds friendships between parents. Now that our children are teenagers, parents will meet and gather from time to time.

The most interesting thing about kindergarten campus life is the children's interest class! There are Miss Irene's class: Jolly Phonics, Miss Isla: ballet class, and Mr. Hui's Music Enlightenment class, etc. The children enjoyed it very much. I also want to thank the principal and teachers for their effort in inspiring children. The child's interest and talent in music were also discovered by Mr. Hui in the music interest class. We have also been cultivating the grace given by God. Last year, our son was admitted to a music school in the United Kingdom to further study music and piano performance.

It is the anniversary of St. Peter's Kindergarten. As parents, we are honored to witness the great efforts of the principal, teachers, and staff! I wish the kindergarten will continue to adhere to the educational philosophy, guide and cultivate students with love!

YU CHING FUNG'S PARENTS

On September 4, 2018, Fung Fung got on the school bus and started his journey to St. Peter's Church Kindergarten (Stanley). Thank you, God! Arranging for our family to move to Stanley and to attend this kindergarten. Although the great school is small, it is full of love.

Fung Fung is a transfer student from K2. The sudden change of residence and study environment made me worried that he would have difficulty adaption. However, my worry turned out to be unnecessary. Fung Fung looked forward to going back to school every day, feeling excited to sing and play games with teachers, looking forward to taking a ride and playing the slide, and eating snacks with other kids. Fung Fung is an active child. I am very grateful to the teachers at the school for being so patient in talking to him and listening to his needs.

Campus life brings endless fun to Fung Fung. The first time he ate hot pot by himself was in school, the first time he had a fashion show, the first time he went shopping in a supermarket... there were many firsts, happening at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten. In just two years, campus life has been exciting and touching. Our family is very grateful to Principal Chen. All the teachers and janitors loved Fung Fung and made him a caring child.

I am honored to be a graduate of St. Peter's Church Kindergarten (Stanley). I wish all the teachers and students in the school have good health and prosperity.

VOICES FROM FORMER PARENTS

CHAN HIN KIU'S PARENTS

My child, Bridge, is on the autism spectrum. Fortunately, he was able to attend the St. Peter's Kindergarten (Stanley) branch. I am very grateful that the class teacher (who is also the current principal) often takes the time amidst her busy schedule to call me and discuss the situation of caring for Bridge. The teacher not only reports the child's problems to me, but also discusses with me, based on practical experience, how to handle the child's behavior, emotions, and learning progress. Through this, I know that the teacher uses different methods to help Bridge adapt and learn, which has increased the sense of security and confidence that my child and I have towards the school and the teachers. I am grateful to have encountered St. Peter's Kindergarten (Stanley Branch) and all its staff. I am grateful for their passion for their work, which has provided Bridge with a childhood full of love and care, and beautiful memories to continue growing with. I sincerely wish St. Peter's Kindergarten (Stanley Branch) and all its staff a better future.

Reflections from Alumni

LAI PAK YIU

Time flies like an arrow, days and months pass like a shuttle. In the blink of an eye, I have already entered my second year of university. Although I was immature and ignorant at the beginning, I still cherish the wonderful memories of the joyful times spent in kindergarten. Those beautiful memories are deeply engraved in my heart. The care and patience of the teachers made me feel warm and reassured. The knowledge and values you taught have become a guide in my growth journey. The company and friendship of my classmates made me feel immense happiness and warmth.

Now, in the process of studying early childhood education, I have a deep understanding of the importance of preschool education for the growth and development of young children. The knowledge, skills, and attitudes I learned back then are still useful for me today, and have become a valuable asset in my academic career.
